

Town of Marana Bond Proposal

Juan Bautista de Anza National Historic Trail Restoration

Scope:

Restoration of the Pima County, Arizona Segment of the Juan Bautista de Anza National Historic Trail, which spans 1,200 miles from its origin in Sonora, Mexico to San Francisco, California.

Location:

A substantial portion of 1,200 mile Juan Bautista de Anza Historic Trail runs through the Town of Marana, within Pima County, and generally runs along the western bank of the Santa Cruz River.

Benefit:

The Town of Marana has partnered with a large cross-section of governments and public organizations, including Pima County, the National Park Service, the Anza Trail Coalition of Arizona, the City of Tucson, the Tohono O'odham Nation, the Town of Sahuarita, and the Green Valley Coordinating Council. The benefits of restoring the extensive portion of the Juan Bautista de Anza Historic Trail that courses through Pima County are truly regional in nature and directly and indirectly benefit hundreds of thousands of citizens. The preservation and restoration of the Juan Bautista de Anza Historic Trail benefits the environment by protecting and preserving a significant portion of Arizona's natural lands. There is a clear educational benefit, in which the restoration of the Trail can serve as a tangible reminder of the historical significance of Juan Bautista de Anza's trek, in which he and more than 200 colonists, soldiers, and Indian guides searched for a land route to the West Coast that would benefit the Spanish while limiting the expansion of the Russian empire.

Estimated Timeline:

4 years

Requested Funds:

- $1.6 Million Dollars for Planning, Public Involvement and Studies.

Pima County

Historic Route. The historic route through Pima County basically follows the Santa Cruz River, passing through Green Valley, Tucson, and Marana. San Xavier Mission, located near Tucson, was one of the expedition's stopping points. "...In those days the river was not incised and channelized as it is today; rather, it tended to meander and to broaden out to create cienagas. Vegetation along the stream, now largely destroyed, would probably have prevented the settlers from proceeding directly near the banks." (from the Pima County Task Force Report, July 1993)

High Potential Route Segments

Santa Cruz River Park, owned and managed by the City of Tucson, contains a multiuse trail within the historic corridor.

Interpretive Sites

Camp #15, La Canoa is interpreted at an Arizona Department of Transportation road side rest along I-19 near La Canoa.

Recreational Trail

The Juan Bautista de Anza National Historic Trail is recognized in the Pima County Comprehensive Plan. Segments will be added to Santa Cruz River Park multiuse trail either as part of county flood control projects or as interim trail linkages.

Auto Route (marked)

Interstate 19 from Santa Cruz County to Tucson is within the historic corridor. Interstate 10 (I-10) then continues along the general alignment of Anza's route.

A more scenic route which could be marked from Mission San Xavier to the county line exits I-19 at San Xavier Road to the mission, follows Mission Road to Grande Avenue to St. Mary's Road to Silverbell Road, a fairly rural road along the west side of the Santa Cruz River. At Marana, the auto route would rejoin I-10.

Note: Historians and archaeologists hold varying opinions about the location of the village of Tuquison in October 1775, related to campsite #18. Some believe it was sited at what is now the I-10/ Miracle Mile interchange. Others believe it was at the foot of Sentinel Peak. The task force selected the historic route through Pima County based on the Miracle Mile siting. Local interpretation will explain both opinions.
